Father Turquestic carried a small revolver and by this weapon he first received information of white men having before visited the country. The natives were greatly interested in the weapon and examined it closely. "That looks like the thing that white man had," said one of the Eskimos in his own language to his companion. "What white man?" inquired Father Turquetit. The Indians handed back the gun and drew away without gaying anything. They refused to speak of the white man and appeared superstitious about their new visitors, but the Chippewas again talked with them and found out what they could. They were told that "a white house had fallen from the sky, that it was covered with ropes and that three were in it." The Eskimos also told where the house had fallen, adding that the men who were hungry, had died shortly after their arrival. All the time they appeared to be hiding something and were not at all anxious to speak of their former visitors. Tell of Mysterious Star. Willam Irvin, who, for fifty-seven years, has had charge of the Hudson Lay post at Good Hope on the Macken-zie River, is in the city, and he says that one night a light appeared over the country and on the following morning all the Chippewas in the district flocked into the Hudson Bay post to tell of the large mysterious star that had passed over the heavens so near to their tents. They said they could hear voices; also that the light was traveling very low. They said they could see it for several hours after it first came into view. It is generally believed here to-day that this was Andree's balloon. The market was heavy all the morning, and around the middle of the day broke below the early low levels, the active old erop deliveries steading 25% points below yesterday's closing, while the new crops were 21 points down. The gossip of the market said the decline was due to raiding by trade interests, who sold heavily yesterday, and who caused a break in Liverpool to-day before the Amorican market were open. Leading bulls were credited with heavy purchases at the decline, and in the afternoon session purchases for long account, logether with profit-taking by shorts, caused a partial recovery. RELICS AT REINDEER LAKE

Eskimo's Story of White House That Fell From Sky.

PRINCE ALBERT, SASK., January 4.—Bishop Pascal, of the Roman Catholic Church, announced yesterday that he had several official dispatches from the Rev. Father Turquetit, missionary for Northern Saskatchewan and Mackenzie Rev. Father Turquetit, missionary for Northern Saskatchewan and Mackenzie River districts, telling of the finding of Andree's balloon, 300 miles north of here, near Reindeer Lake, in the Arctic Circle, by the Eskimos and Indians, Many are of the opinion that the "large white house covered with ropes which fell from the heavens," as described by the Indians, is the balloon in which Andree, accompanied by Dr. S. T. Strindberg and Herr Fraenckell, salled when they left in quest of the pole over twelve years ago.

Father Turquetit speaks Creek, Chippewa and Blackfoot fluently and readly understands the Eskimo language. He is stationed in the Far North, at Reindeer Lake, a settlement which is almost entirely inhabited by Chippewa Indians and within about six days' travel by dog sleigh from Reindeer Lake, or seven days' traveling in a northerly direction from Fort Churchill, is the Eskimo land.

The missionary was very anxious to visit this new territory and to learn something of the customs of the Eskimos and the superstitions of the Indian tribes. A number of Chippewa Indians offered to accompany him and the trip was made, the district being reached after about eight days' traveling.

CAPITAL ONE MILLION DOLLARS

On November 26th last a gentleman in North Carolina spoke to an official of this company and said he wanted to change his will and make us his trustee. He was in perfect health then. Ten days later he was dead. Left $200,000.00 to three friends as trustees. How infinitely better for all concerned if he had appointed a strong trust company instead of individuals as trustee.

Moral: If you haven't made your will, make it now, and remember that the VIRGINIA TRUST COMPANY is better equipped than any individual to act as Executor, Trustee or Guardian.
